January 2018. Clunia Malbec 2015 has been selected to join Prowein's 100 Best Wines from Spain.

This competition has gathered the most renowned experts who have awarded the wine from Clunia with two bulls, the category that compiles the wines with an excellent price to quality ratio.

Signature of Pablo Pávez, Clunia's Agricultural Engineer and Oenologist, Clunia Malbec is made with grapes from a small vineyard, Finca Pedraza, planted at nearly one thousand metres above the sea level.

Its soil composition, location at high altitude and the climate led Pávez to believe that the Malbec grape variety could develop a unique character in Finca Pedraza. The results of the first vintage have impressed Pávez himself.

After a total of fifteen months between malolactic fermentation and further ageing in French oak barrels, Clunia Malbec 2015 has a bouquet of intense aromas of black and red fruits and subtle mineral notes of spices. Persistent and concentrated palate with round and powerful tannins that make this new Clunia Malbec a complex wine which bears the unmistakable stamp of its terroir.

Prowein 2018's list of Spain's Top 100 wines is just the first of many awards which Clunia's most recent launch is bound to collect.
